

The Sign Free Zone map depicts streets where the City may remove portable signs placed within the public right-of-way. The Sign Free Zone is limited to the public right-of-way and does not change the rights of private property owners to place signs on their property. Portable signs, including campaign signs are permitted on private property with the owner's permission throughout the City. Commercial properties may have up to 24 square feet of portable signage and residential properties may have up to 16 square feet of portable signage.
