Water Services Interns go for the GOLD!

Three Water Services interns were awarded Northern Arizona University's Gold Axe award for Fall 2018. This honor is bestowed upon 25 seniors in each graduating class is based on academic performance, leadership, and community service. The interns, Daniel'le DeVoss, Mellisa Yin, and Laura Garcia, are environmental engineering majors interested in pursuing careers in water resources. Their work at the City contributed to an enhanced quality of life for the Flagstaff community, while promoting STEM understanding and environmental consciousness. They are also founding members of the NAU Society of Women Engineers.

Flagstaff Water Services partners with NAU to promote working internship opportunities, allowing students to gain valuable career experience, while bringing fresh perspective and ideas to TEAM FLAGSTAFF. Daniel'le, Mellisa, and Laura felt the opportunity to work at Water Services while completing their engineering studies helped to distinguish them for the Gold Axe award. We are proud to foster career development for outstanding future professionals.
