

Water Services Receives the City Manager’s ‘Aspen Award’ - Leadership 2/12/2020

On February 11th, City Manager, Greg Clifton presented Water Services with the Aspen Award, one of three City Manager Excellence Awards. The awards highlight a group or individual’s efforts to represent City values including teamwork, accountability, communication, quality, and leadership.

Water Services received the award for outstanding leadership in creating the Strategic Plan 2025. Serving as a communication document for fostering conversation with the public, City Council, Water Commission, and within our division, the Strategic Plan identifies ten key issues the water utility will face in the next five years. The award highlights the Strategic Plan for setting a tone, identifying standards, and establishing goals to maintain quality, reliability, and environmentally sound success for Flagstaff’s water in the long term.

This document was crafted by our leadership team to prioritize sound planning, appropriate investments, exceptional customer service, protect public and environmental health, increase efficiency, and improve transparency and community engagement.

If you would like to learn more about the Strategic Plan, read our most recent blog post and view the full plan here.

Photo- Water Services Leadership Team from left to right:

Lisa Deem, Tim Harrington, Jim Janecek, Steve Camp, Erin Young, Jim Huchel, Brian Huntzinger, Mark Richardson

